SEVENTY-PIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The Fortune Received by a Man of Odessa, Mo. Through an Investment in the Lou stana State Lottery.

The last monthly drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery Company gave Alvin Kensler, ot Odessa, Mo. a chance to become the owner of a magnificent fortune of $75,000. On December 26, the day after Christmas, Mr. Kensler inclose: $ o in an envelope, and forwarded it to the company's office at New Orleans, requesting that tickets be sent him in return. If too late for the January drawing, next month's tickets would do as well. But he was not too late. Two whole tickets were forwarded him, and on Tuesday. January 9. when No. 10.454 was taken from the wheel simultaneously with the slip bearing the fligure $75. number was one of those sent to Odessa, Mo., for the ten dollars, which Kensler had risked in the hopes of winning a handsome New Year's gift.

When the winning numbers were telegraphed to all portions of the United States, one of the newspapers reached Kensler's eye, and, scarcely believing that he had grown rich so suddenly, and at such a small outlay, he telegraphed to New Orleans, and was answered that the information was correct.

Kensler did not leave his home to collect his great wealth in person, of Odessa, which telegraphed to Mr. M. A. Dauphin, President of the Lottery Company, and they held it for collection. Two days ago the Louisiana National Bank, correspondents of the Odessa Bank, were and yesterday Mr. Charles Santana, Note and Collection Clerk of the Lousiana National Bank, presented the ticket at the Leitery Company's office for payment. A check for the amount on the New Orleans National Bank was made out. Mr. Santana obtained the money and forwarded it to Odessa.

Soon after this publication Mr. Kensler, who tried the lucky experi- a pleasure ground of eighteen acres, ment of investing $10 in two lottery unequaled by any park in the world tickets, will be possession of enough for the size and magnificence of its money to make his family comtortable for life, and build up the little town which is fortunate enough to be the residence of the $75.000 capitalist .- [New Orleans Picayun, Jan. 35.

The Southern Exposition at Louis-Ville.

The Southern Exposition will be held at Louisville, Ky., beginning August 1, 1883, and continuing one hundred days. At the time of this writing, over $252,000 have been subscribed by the people of Louisville and is now being paid in, and new subscriptions are being received

That Louisville was in earnest in undertaking the greatest exposition ever held in this country, except the National Centennial Exposition of 1876, is evidenced by the fact that her own people have treely supplied all the means required, and no outside assistance has been solicited.

Whatever ample means, earnestness and activity can de to make a great Exposition will be done, and all that the people who have thus furnished the means ask of the people of cur country is that they will 000, it was discovered that the lucky give moral aid and encouragement to the enterprise, that they will bring to its exhibits of their products their manufactures, their machinery and their arts, and that they will come in person and see this exhibition of the arts and industries of the various sections of our land.

The scale on which this Exposition will be conducted may be inferred from the fact that the main building, now in progress, is goo by 600 feet, covering about thirteen acres, with an appropriation of over $150,000 for the cost of erection, with the necessary machinery and interior embellishment provided for but deposited his ticket in the Bank at additional cost. A comparative estimate of the extent of this building may be drawn from the statement the round of fashion and dissipation, that the great. International Cotton Exposition at Atlanta in 1881 covered only eight acres. The only change that can now be made in the given authority to receive the money dimensions of the building will be to extend wings from the south side so as to to increase the area for exhi-

> Fourth Street is the great retail street of Louisville, and is the most popular and tashionable promenade At the southern end of the customary premenade, and in the midst of the most fashionable residence part of the city, lies Central Parktorest trees. Central Park lies between Fourth and Sixth Streets, and is now directly reached by horsecar lines on those streets, and runming beyond the park. This park will constitute the northern inclosure of the Exposition grounds, and the northern tront of the main building will be on its southern line. Arrangements are now progressing for trances, and on the southern line of the grounds the Louisville and Nashville railroad will erect a railway station, at which passengers from any part of the United States may be landed within 200 or 300 feet of one of the Exposition entrances.

In the past few years Louisville has become one of the most important railroad centers in America, and its geographical position so favors the advantage of its railroad connections that it is but one night in a sleeper from almost every important city in the United States. A more centrally, or one more accessthe border line between the North and the South, and between the East and the West makes it an appropriate place for the several' sections to gather and exhibit to each other the particular products of their industry.

How Women Can Become Graceful. From the Baltimore Day.

I think it will be found that the only graceful women take to cigarette smoking, that is, to any extent. Of course no one thinks of Spanish ladies otherwise than as the embodiment of grace, and, as everybody Oat clubs are the fashion of the knows, they are great smokers. day among Georgia farmers, and as Russian ladies, too, as far as my an incentive to hard work and great experience goes, are exceedingly success. The Grandeur of Woman.

When you want to get the grandest idea of a queen, you do not think of Catharine of Russia, or of Anne of England, or of Marie Theresa of Germany; but when you want to get your grandest idea of a queen you think of the plain woman who sat opposite your tather at the table, or walked with him arm in arm down life's pathway; sometimes to the thanksgiving banquet, sometimes to the grave but always together, soothing your pretty griefs, correcting your childish wavwardne s, joining in your infantile sports, listening to your evening prayers, toiling for you with needle, or at the sipinning wheel, and on cold nights wrapping you up snug and warm. And then, at last, on that day when she lay in the back room dying, and you saw her take those thin hands, with which she had toiled for you so long, and put them together in a dving prayer that commended you to the God whom she had taught you to trust -oh, she was the queen! The chariots of God went down to fetch her; and as she went in, all heaven rose up. You cannot think of her now without a rush of tenderness that stirs the deep foundation of your soul, and you feel as much a child as when you cried on her lap; and if you could bring her back again to speak just once more your name as tenderly as she used to speak it, you would be willing to throw yourselt on the ground and kiss the sod that covers her, crying: "Mother! mother!" Ah, she was the queen! To make one such woman as I have described, how many thousands would you want of those people who go in distressing their body until in their monstrocities they seem to outdo the dromedary and hippopotamus; going as far toward disgraceful apparel as they dare go; so as not to be arrested by the police, their behavior a sorrow to the good and a caricature to the vicious, and an insult te that God who made them women and not gorgons; and tramping on down through a frivolous, dissipatedlife to temporal and eternal dam na tion. - [Tulmage.

Cattle Drunk on Eastlage.

From the New York Sun.

We have studied with much interest the proceedings of the Ensiage Congress which met in this own last week. A large number of practical farmers gave their experience, and all of them were strongly rn tavor of this mode of feeding cat le. Some of these gentlemen had built siles that cost only $10 each, and others had experienced with large and expensive establishments; but all of them ultimately pronounced their experiments suc-

It seems to us too soon to conclude that this mode of feeding is to be universally adopted. There is no doubt that cattle generally like ensilage, but that does not prove that it is always good for them. There are two questions especially which require to be determined before we can be sure that the ensilage system is not a passing fancy, but a permanent addition to the resources of farming. The questions are, first, whether cattle fed on ensilage thrive on it in the long run, or whether, after a certain time, it does not become necessary to abandon the ensilage todder and to resort to so ne other mode of feeding ; and, secondly, whether the alchoholic spirt in ensilage, which appears to be what renders the cattle so greedy for it, does not produce in them a state of partial intoxication and continuous inebrity, and does not thus do them positive harm.
